Norway has an important role in assuring European security as producer and supplier of energy to European Allies and must, both nationally and in cooperation with Allies, apply measures to secure this supply.

In this respect, the threat of sabotage in general is of great concern.

The Norwegian Police Security Service assess that Russia's full-scale invasion of Ukraine and the deteriorating relationship between Russia and the West continue to characterise the threat situation in Norway.

In addition to extensive, continuous intelligence and influence operations, there is an increased likelihood that Russian intelligence services will try to carry out sabotage operations in Norway. It is further underlined that the Police Security Service finds it likely that Russian intelligence will try to carry out such actions against targets in Norway in 2025.

The purpose of any actions against targets in Norway will be to prevent us from making deliveries to Ukraine or to negatively influence public opinion on support for Ukraine. The targets of any actions in Norway will probably be similar to what we have seen in Europe. In addition, Norwegian-owned energy infrastructure may also be a target for sabotage in the year ahead. Whether, how and the extent to which this will happen depends, among other things, on Russia's intentions and on how the war in Ukraine unfolds

In accordance with the Commission recommendation on proportionate police checks and police cooperation in the Schengen area of 12th of May 2017, Norway has been carrying out intensified police checks in the areas of Viken region bordering on Sweden. The Norwegian and Swedish police authorities have a very good bilateral cooperation. However, such measures cannot fully substitute internal border controls in the Norwegian ports.

They cooperate on security measures, share information and knowledge and report relevant information at operational level.

10. Assessment of necessity and proportionality under Article 26(1) of Regulation (EU) 2016/399

10.1 Appropriateness: explanation how the reintroduction of border control at internal borders is likely to adequately remedy the threat

The Norwegian Police emphasizes the value the intelligence gathered in connection to the controls have in order to mitigate the threats confronting Norway and that there are no other means that can compensate for the controls. The Police therefore recommends continuation of the controls.

The Norwegian Police also underlines the effect the controls have in countering attempts of foreign malign actors to travel to Norway.

10.2 Explanation why the objectives pursued by the reintroduction cannot be obtained by:

Introducing controls at internal borders allows the collection of advance passenger data.

The controls are targeted and have minimal impact on traffic flow.
